

The Honorable Ted Deutch
2447 Rayburn House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

The Honorable Guy Reschenthaler
531 Cannon House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515

April 15, 2020

Dear Representatives Deutch and Reschenthaler:

On behalf of the Alzheimer's Association and the Alzheimer's Impact Movement (AIM), including our nationwide network of advocates, thank you for your continued leadership on issues and legislation important to Americans living with Alzheimer's and other dementia and to their caregivers. In addition, thank you for working together in a bipartisan manner to introduce the Promoting Alzheimer's Awareness to Prevent Elder Abuse Act. We are proud to support this important legislation which would require the Department of Justice (DOJ) to develop best practice materials to assist professionals supporting victims of abuse living with Alzheimer's and other dementias.

The burden of Alzheimer's on individuals and families continues to grow. More Americans are living with the disease – there are more than 5 million seniors age 65 and older living with Alzheimer's in 2020. By 2050, that number is expected to rise to nearly 14 million. These individuals are at heightened risk for experiencing elder abuse. Elder abuse is the intentional or negligent act by any person that causes serious harm to an older adult. This harm may be physical, mental, emotional, sexual, and/or financial. As many as 62 percent of persons living with dementia experience psychological abuse and as many as one-fourth have been physically abused. Additionally, one study found that 60 percent of elderly victims of sexual abuse have cognitive impairment. Nearly one-third (31 percent) of adults with dementia have experienced more than one form of abuse.

As our population ages and the prevalence of Alzheimer's and dementia increases, police, emergency personnel, and social workers will increasingly encounter persons with dementia but many do not receive specific training on how dementia affects an individual. For example, individuals living with dementia often have difficulty understanding or explaining situations. Common behaviors experienced by individuals living with Alzheimer's and other dementias could be viewed as uncooperative, disruptive, or combative unless professionals have training on the unique needs of someone living with dementia. The Promoting Alzheimer's Awareness to Prevent Elder Abuse Act addresses this need and will improve interactions between justice personnel and our constituents. This bipartisan bill is consistent with the National Plan to Address Alzheimer's Disease and will help ensure greater success for DOJ's efforts to combat elder abuse, neglect, and financial fraud targeting seniors.

We look forward to working with you to get this important bill signed into law. If you have any questions, please contact Rachel Conant, Vice President of Federal Affairs, at rconant@alz-aim.org or at 202.638.7121.

Sincerely,

Robert Egge
Chief Public Policy Officer
Executive Vice President, Government Affairs
Alzheimer's Association